Shootout Four!

Husker-Sooner Tilt Again in Spotlight

By DON BRYANT
Sports Information Director

It's Shootout time once again, as the Nebraska Cornhuskers and Oklahoma Sooners hitch up their guns in the annual renewal of one of America's great college football spectacles.

No finer rivalry and no finer sportsmanship goes on the line anywhere than when the two perennial Big 8 powerhouses tangle.

Oklahoma leads the historic and colorful rivalry by a 27-23-2 margin and the games through the years have been something to behold.

Nebraskans like to remember beating Indian Jack Jacobs and his mates, 13-7, in 1939 to avenge the 14-0 loss in 1938 and the 0-0 tie in 1937. On the other hand, Sooner faithful revel in the memory of that string of victories from 1945 through 1958.

But Husker fans will always remember 1959 when the Bill Jennings-coached Cornhuskers stunned the Sooners and the football world by knocking off Bud Wilkinson's club, 25-21, at Lincoln to snap Oklahoma's 73-game conference win streak. And just to prove it was no fluke, Ron Meade kicked a field goal a year later at Norman and the Huskers logged back-to-back upsets with a 17-14 win. Then the Sooners won 21-14 at Lincoln in 1961 before Bob Devaney arrived to begin a serious challenge to the Sooners.

In 1962 the two teams met in a game that had title connotations and the Sooners won, 34-6, at Norman. Then, in 1963, Nebraska clinched its first Big 8 title—and first loop crown since 1940—with a 29-20 win at Lincoln the day after John F. Kennedy was assassinated, and the rivalry was reheated. Ironically, that game was Bud Wilkinson's last in Lincoln as the Sooner coach. Nine years later Bob Devaney would wind up his coaching career by losing 17-14, to the Sooners in Lincoln.

In between, though, there were some great contests. In 1964, OU spoiled Nebraska's undefeated season by winning, 17-7, at Norman. A year later, the Huskers clinched an undefeated season by beating Oklahoma, 21-9, at Lincoln. And in 1966, the Sooners wrecked another Husker undefeated-season try, 10-9, at Norman. The Huskers fared badly in 1967 and 1968, but in 1969 they launched a hat-trick that would lead to two national titles.

Prior to heading for the Sun Bowl in 1969, Nebraska whipped OU, 44-14, and in 1970 it was a 28-21 victory for the Cornhuskers who then claimed the national title after a 17-12 Orange Bowl victory over LSU.

But all that went before—and has occurred since—was blurred by the drama of the 1971 game, known worldwide as the "Game of the Century," and now dubbed Shootout One in the colorful series.

Both teams were undefeated, with Nebraska ranked No. 1 and OU No. 2 throughout the season. And it turned out to be—in the judgment of many experts—the greatest game ever played. Nebraska and Oklahoma traded leads, played brilliant offense and defense and contributed heroes by the droves. But in the end, Nebraska won the historic contest, 35-31, to clinch a second straight national championship as both teams covered themselves with glory.

The Sooners are now enjoying a two-game streak with a win in 1972 and 27-0 triumph last year at Norman.

Meanwhile, the Nebraska Cornhuskers and their great fans welcome Coach Barry Switzer, his fine Sooner team and their great fans to Nebraska Football Country, USA.

Teachers College Advisory Board Is Active

Actions speak louder than words for the NU Teachers College Advisory Board.

During the past year, the Board compiled a study on Teachers College advising and registration procedures and submitted a proposal to the curriculum committee calling for modification of the general education requirement for Teachers College students.

The advisory group also coordinated the Freshman Orientation program in October, at which more than 400 NU freshmen met Teachers College deans and were provided an opportunity to work out their second semester class schedules with the assistance of Teachers College advisers.

In September, the Board helped prepare the display on Teachers College which was viewed by thousands of visitors to the Nebraska State Fair, and on three Saturdays during the fall semester members participated in the Admission Office's "Senior Information Days" program for high school seniors from throughout Nebraska.

These projects and activities are only a sampling of the work performed by the Teachers College Advisory Board, whose members also represent Teachers College students on each of the College's standing committees (curriculum, promotions and tenure and needs evaluation and assessment). Members of the Board also serve on various committees within each of the College's departments.

"It's a lot of work," admits Lindy Leurs, president of the Advisory Board, "but everybody on the Board believes its worthwhile and is willing to work on any project that helps the Advisory Board fulfill its objectives."

The Teachers College Advisory Board's main purpose as described in its constitution, is to "offer recommendations and assistance to the programs and curriculum of Teachers College." The goals of the organization include "gauging student approval and disapproval of programs in different departments, utilizing student suggestions and broad research to formulate alternatives and solutions to problems and striving to provide increased opportunities for informal as well as formal contact to improve student-faculty relations."

The Advisory Board's membership includes several representatives from the Teachers College student body elected under the auspices of ASUN (Associated Students of the University of Nebraska). ASUN designates a member from the University at large, and the remainder are appointed by the board from among interested students.

The Advisory Board has only two elected officers—President Lindy Leurs and Secretary Jeannette Fossler.

To both officers, the responsibilities of membership are balanced by the experience Advisory Board members acquire through participation on the board.

"I think I've learned much about Teachers College operations that I wouldn't have if I wasn't on the Board," says Miss Fossler, a senior from Beatrice. "Also, all of us on the Board have many opportunities to share our knowledge of Teachers College programs and activities with many other students who want information or assistance of one kind or another."

Miss Leurs, a senior from Grand Island, added that all members of the Advisory Board develop a new perspective on Teachers College through serving on the board.

"The Advisory Board is a means of exchanging views between students and Teachers College faculty members and administrators," she says. "I think that one of the major personal benefits of being a member is that I have been able to become acquainted with so many teachers and administrators on an informal basis outside the classroom. The experience has provided valuable insights into teacher education and college administration that I might not otherwise have been able to obtain."

One of Nation's Top Woman Coaches is Nebraskan

The University of Nebraska can lay claim to educating one of the most successful coaches of women's intercollegiate athletics in the nation.

As coach of women's varsity teams in tennis, hockey, basketball, and softball for more than 40 years, she never had a losing season. And her hockey varsities lost only two games during the last 12 years of her active coaching career. She had more of her players selected as members of the U.S. Women's Field Hockey Team—as many as seven in one year—than any other coach.

She is Miss Eleanor Snell, a former Lincoln resident who earned her degree from the University in 1923. She is the sister of Mrs. A. Leicester Hyde of Lincoln and niece of the late Alice Frost Howard, the first NU woman graduate as a member of the Class of 1876.

Studied at Columbia

After graduating from Nebraska, Miss Snell taught four years in high schools in Iowa and Colorado and then studied at Columbia University, where she received her Master's degree in 1929.

Miss Snell taught several years at Northern State Teachers College in Marquette, Mich., and at Shippenburg (Pa.) State Teachers College before moving on to Ursinus College in Collegeville, Pa., where she established a most enviable record in women's intercollegiate sports as a coach.

Eleanor Snell

In 30 years of competition, her hockey teams won 145, lost 57, tied 29. In basketball, her record was 204-56-14; her softball teams had a record of 91-13 (from 1941-51, her softball team lost only one game); and her tennis team won 62, lost 22.

An English Major

A perfectionist at all things, Miss Snell was often heard gently correcting a student's grammar while she corrected her hockey swing. While at Nebraska she majored in English, and she would no sooner accept sloppy speaking than she would permit sloppy playing.

Since her retirement from Ursinus in 1970, she has semi-retired, living on French Creek near Phoenixville, Pa., and teaching field hockey and softball on a part-time basis at LaSalle University in nearby Philadelphia.

Interested in promoting women's sports at Nebraska, Miss Snell has recently established an endowed Fund in the University of Nebraska Foundation. This Fund will encourage excellence in women's athletic sports, specifically field hockey and basketball. She had asked that an annual suitable trophy or medal be given to a sophomore woman participant in each of the two sports. The awards will be presented on the basis of outstanding sportsmanship and performance.

Clinic in Field Hockey

Aware of the fine facilities and staff of the Physical Education department of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Miss Snell accepted an invitation this Fall to conduct a clinic in field hockey for the intercollegiate team of the University. Physical education teachers from the public schools also attended.

Nebraska's intercollegiate field hockey team, coached by Dr. Janette S. Sayre, had a 10-0 season as of the middle of November, with wins over teams from the Big Eight and surrounding colleges.

Miss Snell was encouraged by the enthusiasm of the woman athletes at Nebraska, but her one lament was the grass on the playing field behind the Physical Education building was cut too long by the grounds crew.

Teachers College Accommodates Changing

A myth to be exploded, according to NU Teachers College Dean Robert Egbert, is that there is still an oversupply of teachers in Nebraska and throughout the United States.

"It isn't true anymore," Dean Egbert says. "Some fields remain oversupplied, but in general, teaching as a career holds great promise for those interested in the field, especially in such areas as science, mathematics, music and business education."

The University of Nebraska Teachers College serves more than 3,000 undergraduate students with approximately 800 students graduating each year. In Teachers College, students have the option of choosing from more than 40 different specialties in classroom teaching, in addition to counseling, vocational education and school administration.

Teachers College began as a department at NU and became a college and major component of the University in 1908. During the past half century, the college has earned respect as an instructor of teachers, and equally important, as the source of much of the educational leadership which serves Nebraska.

Within its nine departments have been developed many programs, both innovative and successful, which illustrate Teachers College willingness and ability to accommodate the changing needs of both its students and society at large.

Egbert cites NUSTEP (Nebraska University Secondary Teacher Education Program) as an example. NUSTEP was designed by the Departments of Secondary Education and Educational Psychology as an integrated, performance-based teacher education program. NUSTEP students spend about 16-20 hours each week in self-instructional, laboratory and practice-based activities. One-half of the student's time is spent as a teacher assistant working with a cooperating teacher in the public school settings of the Lincoln and Omaha areas.

Many other programs in Teachers College have been instituted in order to better prepare students for careers in teaching.

The Cooperative Schools Project of the Elementary Education Department has been a notable success," Egbert says. In this program, NU faculty members and students hold teacher training classes in Lincoln public schools.

Mrs. Jo Bracken, anthropology teacher at Lincoln East High School, goes over lesson plans with practice teacher Kathy Dworak of Lincoln, a senior at NU.

Lincoln senior Greg Sasse is doing his student teaching in biological science classes at East High School.

Needs of Students, Nebraskans

Other efforts to constantly improve the caliber of teacher training result from the close contact maintained by Teachers College faculty members and administrators with teachers, counselors and administrators in schools throughout the state. The Educational Administration Department, for instance, has a working arrangement with the Nebraska School Board Association, and the Educational Psychology Department maintains a close relationship with the state's school counselors.

Teachers College also provides many programs, workshops and college courses for teachers which are taught in home communities under the auspices of the NU Extension Division.

Dean Egbert says that the fundamental mission of Teachers College is "to prepare students to become teachers, administrators or specialists to serve in education. We are, however, responding to changing times by offering a variety of study programs leading to careers in teaching and other fields.

"For example, the special education department within the Educational Psychology and Measurements Department has responded to recent legislation pertaining to local public school special education programs by providing new courses and endorsement patterns to meet their needs."

As an example of a program for students interested in careers other than teaching, Egbert notes that the Department of Business Education has two secretarial programs—one a two-year program leading to certification and the other a four-year degree program for professional secretaries and administrative assistants—which provide excellent training for persons interested in careers in business. Another example of a non-teaching program is one offered by the Department of Physical Education and Recreation, which provides programs for persons interested in careers as recreation directors, counselors and administrators of recreational programs.

Deborah Church, NU senior, participates in NUSTEP (Nebraska University Secondary Teacher Education Program) as a teaching assistant at East High.

Wanek's Just Won't Fit Into 2 Blocks!!

Maybe 3... But Not 2...

It's a good thing we're not in a downtown location, or we'd really cause problems as we encompass 3 1/3 acres under one roof . . . (of course our prices would be higher) and just window shopping Wanek's would entail crossing streets and traffic lights . . . but in our low country overhead location . . . it's comparatively simple!

If you started way up in the top corner, you'd look in on our twin Roll Carpet Displays, featuring over 700 rolls, and if that's not enough selection, we have Carpet Sample and Carpet Remnant Departments as well! The next window would open up into rows of satiny Bedding from Serta, Simmons, Sealy, Obedco and more . . . pass the partition and discover a complete department in Appliances, look to the back and you'll see Wanek's big Color TV and Stereo Dept., with their own Service Dept. to back them . . . next Rockers, Recliners and Rocker-Recliners . . . now you're at the front door, but keep on going to the big array of Sofa-Sleepers and just behind, Dinettes and Chain Lamps by the dozens . . . another partition and it's hundreds of Beautiful Room Settings, from Drexel, Henredon, Thomasville, American of Martinsville and many more all the way across . . . Living Rooms, Dining Rooms, and Bedrooms, in all styles and finishes. Now this next addition will almost have to be viewed from inside . . . it's Wanek's Lovely Showcase of Design, with 45 rooms, each individually decorated right down to the ashtrays, created with you in mind as the very latest in decorating ideas are yours . . . free! Around the corner is Wanek's huge Odds & Ends Shop, almost a store in itself for discontinued and slightly damaged items, it's like a huge rummage sale of constantly changing merchandise. Now you're coming to Wanek's indoor loading docks, great protection for all of your purchases . . . and, of course, Wanek's 5 vast warehouses, one of the main reasons why Wanek's prices are so low, they enable Wanek's to buy and sell in volume and keep plenty of back up stock to guarantee you almost instant delivery, anywhere.

Now come down and take the indoor tour, it's a lot more fun, because you can see everything, all of the latest innovations in America's finest lines in Home Furnishings . . . plus . . . Wanek's unbelievably low prices!

Teaching and Learning Center Goal Is Improving Instruction

Dr. Gene Harding, T.L.C. director, and Dr. Delivee Wright, instructional assistant, review audio tapes from mini-courses available through the Center.

Improving instruction has been declared a No. 1 priority at NU, and the Teaching and Learning Center is one way this is being accomplished.

The Teaching and Learning Center (T.L.C.) was organized in 1971 to support efforts to improve instruction. Dr. Vern Williams was the Center's first director. Dr. Gene Harding has served as director since July, 1974.

The T.L.C. serves as an administrative office for the Lincoln Campus Teaching Council. The Teaching Council is composed of faculty and student members who work in cooperation with the Teaching and Learning Center to improve teaching.

"One area of particular interest this year is to emphasize activities relating to new teachers and teaching assistants," Harding says.

A two-day preschool workshop was held for new faculty members as an introduction to teaching at NU, and additional workshops and seminars will be conducted throughout the year.

The combined efforts of the Teaching and Learning Center and the Teaching Council are being used to encourage many types of teacher improvement.

Harding cites several programs he says are typical of teaching improvement activities that are under way:

—Dr. Steve Hilliard of the English Department is holding weekly seminars this semester for teaching assistants.

—Professors David Brooks and J. D. Lewis, chemistry, and Don McCurdy, secondary education, have organized a program called Project TEACH to help train graduate assistants in chemistry.

—The University Counseling Center has developed a workshop for student advisors that will be implemented in mid-year.

—The Faculty Self-Analysis Program was started in October as another way to help teachers evaluate methods of instruction. Participating faculty members will work with Dr. Delivee Wright, instructional assistant at the Teaching and Learning Center.

She will help them analyze their teaching procedures and plan methods of modification. She presently is working with the Geology Department and instructors from six other departments.

The Teaching and Learning Center also offers an analysis of student evaluations of teachers. Several forms are available to all departments on request.

Also available at the Teaching and Learning Center is a library of written and taped materials relating to teaching techniques.

In addition, workshops and seminars are used by the T.L.C. to share teaching information with the faculty. This year workshops have been held on the Centennial Program, grading, advising and teaching alternatives in large classes.

Consultation with faculty members, individually or in groups, is used to help with specific problems faced by instructors.

And a newsletter is being published as another way to help share ideas and programs about NU teaching.

The University Examinations Service is also an important part of the Teaching and Learning Center. Over 35,000 tests were scored there second semester, 1973-74. College Level Examination Placement tests are given by Examinations Service and a variety of other placement tests are administered there.

The Teaching and Learning Center is in Seaton Hall. Faculty members are encouraged to visit and use it.

Non-Traditional Education

LINCOLN — Non-traditional education is an Area of Excellence that encompasses a broad range of programs within the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Teachers College.

The Nebraska Legislature provided an additional appropriation of $106,300 to Teachers College when it designated non-traditional education as one of six Areas of Excellence.

"The Adult and Continuing Education department will expand the scope of its program while maintaining its major thrust, said Wes Meierhenry, chairman of the Adult and Continuing Education Department, as he described his department's plans under the Excellence program.

"We are becoming a society in which education is no longer regarded as a monopoly of the young," Meierhenry said. "We are, in fact, a life-long learning society."

"Within such a society," he explained, "are many diverse elements and a wide range of needs to be served. More and more people are taking workshop and classroom courses in their local communities for individual betterment or college credit. Others pursue vocational programs in community and technical colleges. Employees of many businesses, industries and public and private institutions participate in on-the-job or in-service training programs, and many agencies, both public and private, provide informational programs related to the services they provide. There are also many people in need of remedial training in such basic skills as reading and arithmetic."

One goal of the Department of Adult and Continuing Education is to enlarge its staff, mainly through inter-departmental coordination within Teachers College and other colleges of the University. Also, studies will be conducted to ascertain needs in non-traditional education, the clientele to be served, opportunities for careers and ways of delivering learning programs in communities.

Experimental programs will be developed and offered to students in Adult and Continuing Education in such areas as remedial reading, planning educational programs for the elderly and helping those in the health services with techniques and approaches to communicating health information.

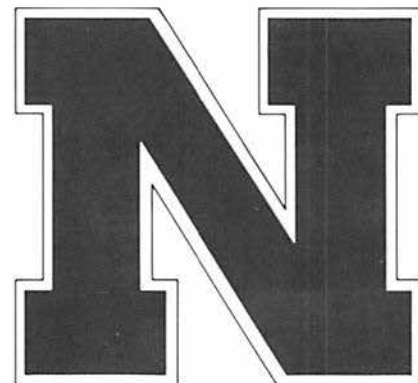

Meierhenry said the department is also exploring the possibility of opening some of its programs to undergraduate students at NU.

"If the current rate of growth continues," he said, "there will be a need to attract more individuals to this area of specialization. Therefore, the Department of Adult and Continuing Education will consider developing appropriate undergraduate educational programs to give participating students a basic understanding in this area, broaden their horizons in professional education and open up new opportunities for employment."

The cooperative school project, one of the other programs to benefit from the Areas of Excellence appropriation, is a non-traditional approach to teacher education. In this project, Teachers College faculty members hold classes for Teachers College students in two Lincoln schools, utilizing an actual school environment and its resources to prepare students for later student teaching experiences.

Also to be achieved through the appropriation will be coordination of doctoral programs currently offered through each of six separate departments in Teachers College. Dr. Erwin Goldenstein, professor of history and philosophy of education, was appointed in July to head the effort, which, when completed, will consolidate the six doctoral programs into three. The existing doctoral programs will be included in the revised system, but other areas of specialized interest will be possible, and there will be room for new programs as they are developed.

Quick Service is Goal of New Libraries Dean

"One of my goals as Dean of Libraries here at UNL," said Gerald Rudolph, who assumed those duties Monday, "is to show our clientele that we have the material they need and that we're able to get it to them quickly."

Rudolph, who during the last eleven years has been director of libraries at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University in Blackburg, Va., and at Kansas State University in Manhattan, Kan., replaced Acting Director Alan C. Breckenridge. Breckenridge became acting vice chancellor of academic affairs.

"Good service will be our motto," said Rudolph. He said some changes in organization of the library system will have to be made.

"The new Love Library addition should solve some of our service problems," Rudolph said. "However, it's not large enough.

Our library budget is much too small for a university this size. We are dealing with the legislature for more budget money."

One long range solution for dealing with the service problem is an automated circulation system, Rudolph said. Such a system would do away with lending fines and prevent book check-out if the book was reserved or the borrower had not returned overdue books. The system would take two years to install.

This policy would apply to graduate students and faculty, as well as undergraduates, Rudolph said.

"I believe all our clientele should be treated equally as far as penalties in the library system," he said. "However, if there is no way to force compliance to regulations, establishing them is foolhardy."

Now the faculty doesn't have to comply with the student regulations. "It is difficult to fine the faculty or reduce their wages," Rudolph said.

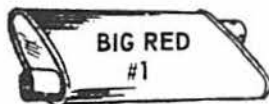

Rudolph said he would like to establish a record book which would indicate whether a book is in the library and a file listing the location of books stored around campus, due to lack of space in Love Library.

"I'm not familiar with all the problems of the library and am open to complaints concerning it," Rudolph said.

"It's true the library system has a poor reputation," he said. "I'd like to change that. In all cases, I will assess the situation as honestly as possible—as that is my main objective—to be honest with the students and department."

"More Smiles Per Gallon"

If you can't remember the last time you got a smile out of commuting, start here.

Because we're introducing a completely new motorcycle for commuters. The KZ-400.

We have special pride in the KZ-400, because it's a home-town motorcycle, manufactured right here in Lincoln. In fact, Kawasaki is the only one of the major four motorcycle companies producing bikes in this country.

We're making the KZ-400 so you'll have a way of getting to work, or school, or wherever, that's more economical than a car, more personal than a bus, more fun than either.

Keep smiling. The KZ-400 kicks over with an Electric Starter which requires no kick from you. It hums along on a smooth, powerful Four Stroke twin cylinder 389cc engine, as generous with your comfort as it is stingy with your gasoline (up to 50 miles per gallon, depending how you ride). The 5-speed transmission and big, front disc brake are something to smile about, too.

Your local Nebraska Kawasaki dealer, listed in the Yellow Pages, and sponsor of this ad, invites you to drop by and take a look at the new KZ-400. It's the home-town motorcycle that'll put a smile back in your commuting.

Kawasaki
lets the good times roll.

Cornhusker Alward Plans Teaching Career

Tom Alward

Cornhusker offensive guard Tom Alward's decision to go into the teaching field came as no surprise to his family. Teaching has long been a common family interest.

His father is the Superintendent of Schools in the Chippewa

Hills School District in Michigan, his mother teaches real estate in adult education classes at Ferris State College in Big Rapids, Mich., and his sister is a high school English teacher.

Alward said he would like to coach in a high school or small college after graduation. With minors in health, biology and driver's training, he also will be qualified to teach those courses when he is graduated this May with a bachelor of science degree in education from Teachers College.

"Principals and superintendents don't go to colleges to recruit teachers anymore," he said. "Unless you are qualified to teach a certain combination of courses that just fits what a school wants, it is hard to find a good teaching position."

This Spring Alward will be doing his student teaching in a high school in Lincoln where he will instruct physical education classes. He taught in an elementary school in Lincoln last year to fulfill a requirement for a teaching methods course he was taking and he also has taught driver's training two summers in a high school in his home state of Michigan.

Even though Alward is planning on a teaching career, he said he may not be turning his back on football as soon as he is graduated from college.

"Right now my immediate plans are rather nebulous," he said. "My father, who has been a coach for 20 years, has influenced me a lot, and I know that I want to eventually go into teaching. But there is a possibility that I might go to graduate school first. And, of course, there is always that dream of playing professional football. I still have some decisions to make."

University of Oklahoma

Established in 1890 by an act of the Territorial Legislature, the University of Oklahoma opened its doors to the first 52 students in 1892.

At that time few of the students were qualified to do college level work, and the University operated a preparatory school in its one-building campus in downtown Norman.

The citizens of Norman raised money to buy a 40-acre tract south of the city as a site for the University. From those bare beginnings Oklahoma's leading educational institution has grown to include several thousand acres with one of the finest physical plants in the Southwest. Enrollment has grown to more than 18,000, and the University offers programs not only on the main campus but also in continuing education and public service centers throughout the state.

Drawing its student body from every state in the Union and from a broad range of foreign countries, the University community represents a cultural cross section. Its housing and recreation facilities are excellent, and plans call for further expansions in this area with the construction of an all-purpose arena, a physical education-recreation center and a student activities center within the next few years.

Automobile dealers in Nebraska are contributing a large measure of help to the University of Nebraska athletic program through the loan of courtesy cars.

Like other programs which are a part of the Cornhusker booster group activities, this project enables the Nebraska Athletic Department to make greater use of its funds.

These sports-minded dealers around the state have earned a great debt of gratitude from the University of Nebraska Athletic Department. They are an important part of the "team" that includes players, coaches, administration, faculty, staff, students, alumni, Husker Educational Award group, Touchdown Club, Extra Point Club, Beef Club and the courtesy car program.

THE TOUCHDOWN CLUB OF NEBRASKA

One of the groups most instrumental in helping the University of Nebraska Athletic Department grow in the field of inter-collegiate sports is the Nebraska Touchdown Club.

Contributions from TD Club members have enabled the Cornhuskers to build a fine grant-in-aid program and continued support from the Touchdown Club, and groups like the Husker Achievement Awards, the Extra Point Club, and the Cornhusker Beef Club, will insure that the Nebraska Cornhuskers will always hold a prominent place in the college sports world.

The University of Nebraska Athletic Department salutes the many members of the Touchdown Club and takes this opportunity to say a sincere "Thank You."

Touchdown Club members contributing $100 or more are:

Band Finale Is "Freedom Show"

The "Freedom Show" is the title of the final home performance by the Cornhusker Marching Band during the 1974 football season.

Jack Snider and his marching Cornhuskers have combined patriotic and Thanksgiving spirit into this halftime show for the traditional Oklahoma-Nebraska Big Eight shootout.

Band formations on the field are designed to depict medicine, fire and police protection, teaching, government, etc. At times the show plans call for as many as three formations at once.

Music for the show includes such stirring tunes as "Yankee Doodle," "Over There," "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," "Ballad of the Green Beret" and "Bridge Over Troubled Waters."

Special feature of the show is a serenade by the Varsity Men's Glee Club directed by Ray Miller. The singers join the band for "Battle Hymn of the Republic," "This Is the Army Mr. Jones," "I Am an American" and "God Bless America."

The pre-game band performance includes a salute to the Teachers College of The University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

"HAIL VARSITY"

Chorus

Hail to the team,
The stadium rings as everyone sings
the Scarlet and Cream,
Cheers for a victory
Echo our loyalty;
So on, mighty men
The eyes of the land, upon ev'ry hand, are looking at you.
Fight on for victory
Hail the men of Nebraska U

THE CORNHUSKER

Come a-runnin' boys
Don't you hear that noise
Like the thunder in the sky,
How it rolls along
In the good old song
For the sons of Nebraska;
Now it's coming near
With a rising cheer
That will sweep all foes away,
So, with all our vim,
We are bound to win
And we're going to win today.

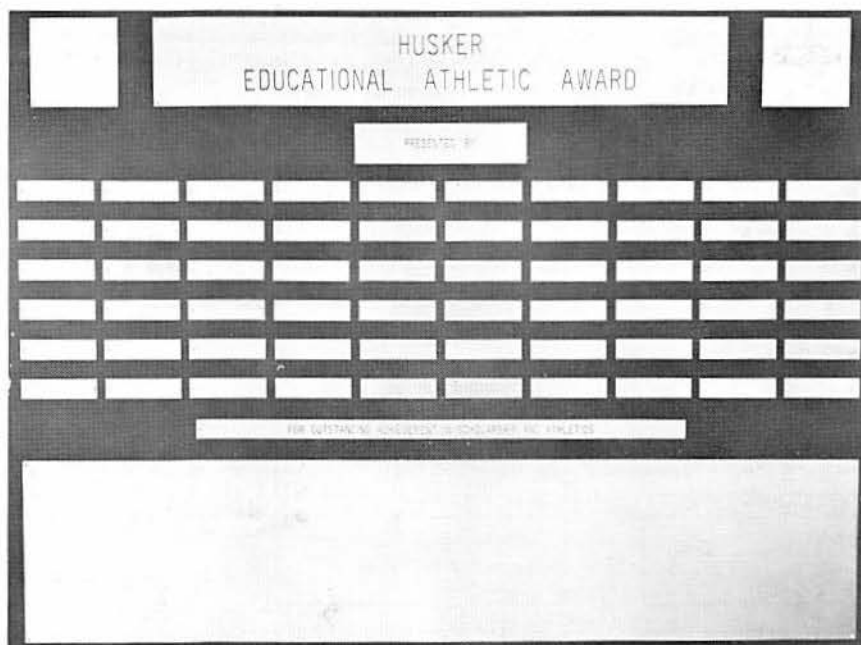

Chorus

For Nebraska and the Scarlet
For Nebraska and the Cream,
Tho they go through many a battle
Our colors still are seen
So in contest and in victory
We will wave them for the team
And 'twill always stir a Cornhusker,
The old Scarlet and Cream.

DEAR OLD NEBRASKA U

There is no place like Nebraska,
Dear old Nebraska U
Where the girls are the fairest,
The boys are the squarest
Of any old school that I knew,
There is no place like Nebraska
Where they're all true blue
We'll all stick together
In all kinds of weather
For dear old Nebraska U.

Cornhusker Educational and Athletic Award Program

Presented in Bronze Plaques

An appreciation plaque is located in the lobby of the Coliseum.

The Husker Educational Athletic Award program is a program established nine years ago under the joint sponsorship of the University of Nebraska Alumni Association, the University of Nebraska Foundation, and the University of Nebraska Department of Intercollegiate Athletics. It is a worthwhile attempt on the part of these organizations to help provide a stabilized athletic program for your state university. It has met with enthusiastic support from business leaders all over Nebraska and from other friends of the University.

All grants are under the rules and regulations of the NCAA and Big Eight Conference and meet the approval of the Faculty Committee on Scholarships. The awards are based upon scholarship character, and athletic participation.

NEBRASKA SPELLS "SPORTSMANSHIP"

The University of Nebraska is known and respected all over the nation for its red-attired fans, as well as its football teams.

Nebraska fans also have a nation-wide reputation for good sportsmanship, at home and away.

"Big League"—that's the way Nebraska teams and fans have acquitted themselves in past seasons, and that's the same goal for 1974.

The University of Nebraska urges all 1974 fans to continue this fine tradition of sportsmanship by extending courtesy to the visiting teams and officials.

All of us on the Cornhusker Staff salute our fans as the greatest in the nation and thank you for your support and sportsmanship.

Yours for Nebraska,

Bob Devaney

Over the years, Zenith color TV has earned a reputation for dependability and picture excellence no other color TV can match.*

And today's Zenith solid-state Chromacolor II backs up that reputation with a combination of features no other color TV can offer.

The famous Chromacolor picture tube that set a new standard of excellence in color TV. A patented Power Sentry voltage regulator that protects components. And a rugged, 100% solid-state modular chassis for long-life dependability.

It's the best way we know to make sure, at Zenith, the quality goes in before the name goes on.[®]

CHROMACOLOR II

*For the third straight year, a nationwide survey of independent TV service technicians has named Zenith, by more than 2 to 1 over the next best brand, as the color TV needing fewest repairs. The same survey rated Zenith as the highest-quality color TV, as the one with the best picture, and as the one service technicians would buy for themselves today. Survey details on request.
